PRISON SHIP INCIDENT MAY GO TO LEAGUE

Norway Likely To Appeal To Nations Group Over Seizure

OSLO, Feb. 19.—Foreign Minister Halvdan Kihle today indicated Norway might appeal to the League of Nations over the seizure of prisoners from the German prison ship Altmärk in Norwegian waters.

GUSSINGFORD, Norway, Feb. 19.—Whether the German prison ship Altmärk may become a prisoner herself apparently depends upon Norway's answer to the question whether the vessel came within the category of an armed auxiliary.

Great Britain has demanded internment of the ship from which a British destroyer freed some 300 British seamen Friday in Norwegian waters.

Germany has protested and is expected to ask the League to return Altmärk to Norway must decide.

So far, she has not committed officially on the German contention that the Altmärk was unarmed, or Britain's that she was a two-pom-pom (multi-barrelled anti-aircraft gun) and four machine guns.

The Altmärk, meanwhile, lay aground here as close to shore today that sightseers could see blood staining the rigging of the fleet, memento of the brief battle when the British destroyer Colchester mined the Altmärk into shallow water and sent a raiding party ashore to rescue the prisoners.

The Nazi spokesman at headquarters for the service and most members of the German crew who died in the fight. Five who were killed and two who died later of injuries were to be buried today in a churchyard here with services conducted by a German pastor from Oslo.

How many died was not known definitely, however, as the British said they dragged the body from some believed to have drowned.

LONDON, Feb. 19.—The Press Association predicted today that Prime Minister Chamberlain would make a statement on the Altmärk incident in the House of Commons tomorrow.

"Mr. Chamberlain is expected to content himself with a recapitulation of what has occurred," the Association said.

London Says Duke Favored

DUKE OF KENT

LONDON, Feb. 19.—Speculating on choice of a successor to the late Lord Tweedsmuir as governor-general of Canada, the Sunday newspaper Reynolds's News, suggested yesterday the Duke of Kent is "the first favorite" for the post.

Mr. Crawford declared that his two election clerks are Mrs. A. M. Traub, who has acted with him in a similar capacity in two previous elections and W. Briggs, who did the same work in the last provincial general election on August 22, 1935.

Mr. Crawford stated that all persons applying for positions as members of the election committee will be asked to make application on prescribed forms.

Discussing plans for the election, Mr. Crawford declared that the old city polls, which have been used for years, will be completely altered. Polling stations will conform to polls for the Dominion election.

There will be 138 polling places within the Edmonton city limits and two polls in Beverly.

An amendment to the Legislative Assembly Act, passed last year, a new district has been created west of the city limits, extending one mile west, from the northern boundary of the city.

RED PAPER COMPLAINS CONDITIONS

British United Press Exclusive Cable To The Edmonton Bulletin
MOSCOW, Feb. 19.—The Moscow radio announced today that Pravda, official newspaper of the Russian Communist party, has complained bitterly of lack of discipline, graft and excessive bureaucracy in Russia.

The radio said the newspaper's editorial charged that "there is no one to take care of the factory distribution."

The radio stated that the factory is utilizing only about 40 per cent of the crude rubber because nobody is interested in improving production. This, despite repeated government orders.

Sweden is apparently determined to avoid invasion by Germany and many Russia.

Russia 18th Division Annihilated

By EDWARD W. BEATTIE, JR.
British United Press. Exclusive Cable To The Edmonton Bulletin.
HELSINKI, Finland, Feb. 19.—A war communiqué today reported the final and complete "annihilation" of the Red army's 18th division northeast of Lake Ladoga and announced that fresh Finnish forces also had halted the Russians southeast of Salmekalka river in new defence positions of the Mannerheim line.

The Finnish success northeast of Ladoga, where 15,000 Russians were reported killed or captured, ended a drive to encircle the lake and attack the Mannerheim line from the rear, while a statement that Russian thrusts had been repulsed in local fighting on the Karelian isthmus indicated that the Red army main offensive had been slowed down or stopped by the new Finnish defence line.

The communiqué said the Red Army lost about 1,000 men on the Mannerheim line and 20 airplanes yesterday.

Key To Economic Difficulties Lies In Farm Welfare

TORONTO, Feb. 19.—President J. S. McLean of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, head of Canada's Farmers' Lumber, and well known Canadian business leader, today suggested that the key to Canada's economic difficulties lies in the advancement of agricultural welfare. To this end he advocated the broadening out of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce to include agricultural representatives, and the setting up of machinery "to clear away the suspicions and misunderstandings which admittedly are the chief obstacles in the path of our economic progress."

Mr. McLean also advocated the sharing of profits of capital by labor.

"Capital and labor are partners, whose interests are parallel and not opposed, and because they are partners, when profits are being made beyond a reasonable return on capital, labor has a right to share in them," he said, and added that an immediate result of the application of this principle of profit sharing would be to bring about a better adjustment between production and purchasing power, thereby tending to give Russia ground for charging Sweden with lack of neutrality.

LONDON, Feb. 19.—Dominions Secretary Anthony Eden returned by air today from the Near East, where he gave an official welcome to the Australian and New Zealand expeditionary forces.

Anthony Eden, secretary for the dominions, is shown aboard one of the fleet of transport ships that brought a vast army of Australians and New Zealanders to the Near East, as he made a speech of welcome to the Anzac troops who have rallied to the side of the Mideast. Canadian Legion In Last-Minute Drive To Boost War Fund

Swinging into the last minute drive to raise Edmonton's quota of $10,000 for Canadian Legion War Services Inc., local officials of the drive have been given the assistance of S. Heckerbert of Vermilion, campaign director for Alberta, who is now in the city.

Donations in the fund to date have exceeded $100,000. L. H. field, campaign director for Edmonton, announced. He said donations from larger business houses and from staffs of firms were not included in this figure.

In Calgary $2,000 has been collected, but no figures are yet available on rural contributions.

Alberta has been asked to contribute $30,000 and appeals for funds will continue this week.

"I find that some microphones still exist in the minds of some businessmen and others as to the objectives of this fund," said Mr. Heckerbert today. "No one who came through the last war and went through the bitter lack of getting rehabilitated has any such misconception. They know the need of the work we are undertaking and its value to the community and to the Dominion as a whole."

He did not run in the 1935 general election but was elected to the House of Commons in the 1938 general election. He was elected for the 1938 general election.

It was also learned on high authority that Mr. Ernest C. Manning, minister of trade and industry, will content an Edmonton seat. He was named on the list to go before the advisory board at a recent Edmonton municipal convention.

At present he sits for Calgary. There have been strong rumors that he would run in St. Mary's, a seat vacant since last spring when the late Mr. W. E. Hays, M.P., died. But it is believed that Mr. Manning will finally decide to run in this city, where it is believed his legislation for industry and workers, will insure his election.

The Provincial Elections

Dissolution of the legislature, with general provincial elections to be held on Thursday, March 21, means a campaign of only a month's duration. Added to the time for discussion, the added disadvantage that a general federal campaign is also in progress. Public attention will be divided between the concurrent controversies. Willing as he may be to get both events over before the busy season opens, the perplexed elector cannot be blamed for wishing he could deal with his responsibilities one at a time.

The policy of the Government is sufficiently known by its record. The proposals of the C.C.F. to socialize the means of production and to do away with the profit system are fairly well understood. But the proposals of the Liberals and the Conservative parties are undefined and even their relationships are vague. The Conservatives withdrew as a party from the provincial field and joined the "unity" movement. The Liberals under Mr. Gray decided to leave to party members in each constituency to nominate their own candidates or join with other groups in supporting independent candidates in opposition to the Government. The electors have not before them anything resembling clearly drawn platforms offered by these two parties, and do not know what would happen in the event that a majority of the electors should be elected to the new legislature.

There is thus a condition of confusion, more nearly chaotic than has ever been seen at a previous election-time. It is not to be perceived at present whether this is to be a four-way contest between organizations, or a contest between the C.C.F. programs, or a free-for-all melee with half the candidates of more or less uncertain affiliations and plans. A vast amount of platform work, and of publicity through the newspapers and over the air, will be required if the voters are to know on political platform what the alternatives are, and policies bidding for their approval and between what types of government they may choose.

The Altmark

The Altmark, which acted as prison ship for the Graf Spee when that defunct raider was sinking merchant vessels in the South Atlantic, tried to sneak into a German port by keeping within the coastal waters of Norway, with 400 seamen from the sunken ships battened under its hatchways as prisoners.

The Admiralty at London got wind of the dodge and sent a destroyer into the Norwegian cove to search the skulker. It did so, taking off the prisoners, who had been living in the hold for months in "frightful" conditions. As the Altmark's crew resisted, several of them were killed in a scuffle with the boarding party. Neither the ship nor its crew were seized.

Berlin of course is furious. The invasion of neutral waters by the British destroyer is denounced as a crime almost without parallel in naval warfare. Nothing said, however, about the cause of the invasion—the transporting of prisoners of war through neutral waters. The one is as expressly forbidden by sea law as the other.

It isn't Norway's neutral rights the Nazis are concerned about—it hasn't any such rights when one of their U-boats gets within range of a Norwegian fishing vessel or freight ship. What links them is the loss of the prisoners, and disappointment at the failure to humiliate the Allied warships by violating Norwegian neutrality on their own account.

Norway undoubtedly has a case for protest against Britain. But it has precisely as good a case against Germany. And along with the protest to London should go some explanations. The Altmark had been inspected by a Norwegian official, who declared there were no prisoners aboard. That will stand a lot of explaining.

Swedish Neutrality

Sweden has given official notice that foreign troops will not be allowed to pass through its territory to the aid of Finland. It is entirely within its rights in so ordering. It could not maintain neutrality and otherwise. And, rightly or wrongly, its Government thinks the road to safety lies through neutrality.

This does not necessarily mean that men going to join the Finnish army will not longer be allowed to pass through Sweden, as they have been doing in large numbers. It may only mean that organized bodies in uniform, or wearing distinctive badges, will be barred.

If to people living three thousand miles away this order seems swollen, it must not be forgotten that Sweden is "on the spot." It is living in imminent danger of instant attack by flights of Russian and Nazi bombing planes, of having its capital and seaports bombarded by Soviet and Nazi warships, and of invasion by expeditionary forces of the twin aggressors.

There are signs aplenty that Hitler and Stalin are looking for an excuse to attack both Sweden and Norway—in part because they have done so that the rules of neutrality permitted them to do so to allow aid to reach Finland.

Swedish sympathy with Finland is not in question, but a Government with a gun at its head cannot forget that it is the guardian of the lives, property and liberties of its own people first and foremost.

Editorial Notes

Tokyo announces termination of Japan's treaty with The Netherlands, providing for judicial settlement, arbitration and conciliation in cases of disagreement. The Netherlands government has agreed to be mediated. But The Hague announces it will build three battle-cruisers at a cost of $31,000,000 each "to defend the East Indies." Its possessions there need no weapons unless against Japan. The Dutch authorities evidently suspect the "negotiations" may be patterned on those which preceded the onslaught upon China.

A Chinese coasting steamship was "blown to bits" when it struck a mine off the mouth of the Min river, 300 men, women and children being killed by the explosion or drowned. The river empties into the South China Sea. The mine was laid by the Japanese. China has no warships there or anywhere along the coast. If the mine was planted by the Chinese it must have been planted a year or two years ago. If planted by the Japanese it accomplished the only purpose it could have been intended to accomplish.

A Vancouver policeman was surprised to find his name was not on the voters' list while his wife was recorded as a widow. But what particularly irked him was to find the list the name of a man who has been dead for 25 years. The man's name was on the list because a view to prevent names being added to or left off a voters' list by intent, and seems well calculated to do so. But it has not prevented mistakes being made. The incident suggests that under the former law a good many of what were supposed to be intentional inaccuracies were accidental. Enumerators generally were never as bad as they were represented to be.

Although Laurier's motion for tariff reductions was defeated by a large majority, the government was determined to eliminate some of the more noxious features of the present tariff system. This proved that debates on the tariff were a useful device. Even when tariff forces are defeated, their protests help to form public opinion until action is forced from a reluctant government.

The Passing Show

By J. S. COWPER

My gifted young colleague, Max Freedman, in this column a week ago, quoted the parody on the German propaganda radio of Antony's speech over the body of Julius Caesar. It wasn't a clever parody. The Nazi mind is so ponderous for it. And the stupid Nazi parodist overlooked the circumstance that Antony was talking with his tongue in his cheek, saying one thing and meaning another. It was an altogether unhappy attempt at either humor or purposeful propaganda.

A much more typical piece of Nazi propaganda was the use made of Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill's Manchester speech. Records were taken in Germany and interlarded with records showing interruptions. As doctored up, and reproduced for German listeners, the voice of the First Lord of the Admiralty is drowned out again and again by an infernal of catcalls and din. The voice of the speaker is almost indistinguishable. The German speaker blandly states that it is an authentic record attesting to the unpopularity of the British Ministry among his "starving countrymen."

It is mentally sloping people who are being dragged in its thinking, might not be capable of questioning why the Nazi government, which imposes its own propaganda on its people for listening to an original broadcast from abroad, should force them to listen to German propaganda. It is not that it cannot be faked record is proof that the German people are suffering shortage and are being buoyed up by deceptive statements that the British people are starving and will soon overthrow the Chamberlain ministry.

Many friends when I made through this column were kind enough to send words for my recovery during a recent stay in hospital. But the most sincerely distressed of all was a young lady who has never read The Passing Show. She'd probably think it pretty dull stuff.

THANKS FOR A look towards my visit to the adventures of Peter Rabbit and an occasional location into the "funnies."

Her mother on several occasions left her in the car to mind her own business while making a call at the hospital. Having in mind that the baby brother followed her mother's stay in hospital, she was sure to find a baby should be wished on me on leaving. "And he has no one to mind it for him," she said.

There's the little mother speaking, careful of the coming generation.

War in the air, that has taken so many valiant young lives, has speeded up inventions that will make civil aviation safer for the air-minded public. I mentioned the other day the new device for sucking "dead air" from the upper surface of the wing, which will enable planes to land safely low and greatly minimize the risk of spins and dives. The Sperry Gyroscope engine, a few days ago announced an improvement of the cathode ray tube that will make navigation simple and remove the risk of "pilot failure" emergencies.

Since multi-engine planes appeared, the instrument panel has grown tall it occupies space on walls, ceiling and floor. With only two eyes, the pilot must observe the readings of a hundred instruments.

The new "flight ray" brings the data of all the essential instruments into one instrument. It allows the flight formation in pictorial manner.

Strictly speaking, technological details, the "flight ray" consists of a soft luminous screen set in front of the pilot on the dashboard of his plane. Two parallel vertical lines intersected by two horizontal lines, form in the centre is the silhouette of the plane. After setting the plane on its course, all the pilot must do is keep the tiny light plane moving up or to right or left of the centre of the crossed lines. The cathode ray tube ensures that the image on the screen is in true relation to the plane in its flight. Where landing fields are fitted with necessary beam apparatus, planes can be landed in darkness or fog without the pilot looking through his windows. There will be no risk of confusion through a pilot having to watch too many instruments during hazardous landings.

War with its heartbreak and heavy toll, needs to yield some advancements for the price it exacts.

Religion Day By Day

By WILLIAM T. ELLIS

ONE HOLY LAND LILY. On our latest visit, we entered the Holy Land by way of Haifa—history-crowded Haifa, or Zippa, which claims to be the oldest city in the world—and drove straightway to Jerusalem, across the Plain of Sharon, through green fields and groves of olive and orange.

It was too early for Spring flowers, but Midday, ever with a keen eye for Nature's offerings, spotted a gorgeous red flower on the roadside, and must have it. This is the Lily that Jesus made us "consider."

One could not slight the moment of an experience a better than many vague impressions. It is worth the journey to be able to pluck with one's own hands a blazing flower from this sacred soil, and to learn a lesson. The world, the Master's message of the Father's individual care. This single red flower transports me to the days when the Bible first met their way, and Jesus spoke comfort to the hearts of the harried.

We would "consider the lilies," and all the other contemplations which Thoreau had labelled with spiritual significance. Dear Reader, in life's little may we see Thy largeness.

Fully Motorized

Brantford's transportation system has achieved the stage of full motorization, eliminating a progressive policy developed over many years ago by the Public Utilities Commission and hastened as a result of business-line necessity. Thus this city keeps pace with the modern trend and doubles the chugger, now that has been completely replaced, prove infinitely more satisfactory than was the older method of public conveyance.

The original horse-drawn street cars commenced operation here on the evening of Saturday, September 9, 1886. Subsequently electrified, the railway was acquired by the city on August 8, 1914. It has rendered its service, and within its capacities, essential and appreciated service.

The old order changed, yielding place to the new, and the public will be better accommodated by an up-to-date, quick, comfortable and flexible system of buses—Brantford Exporter.

Control of Transport

The Joint Quebec legislative committee of railway employees has come out flatly for control of Dominion railways in the hands of commercial transport. This is a policy The Long has advocated, but one which makes progress slowly because of the opposition of the provinces to the surrender of any of their legal rights.

The railroads came under supervision of the Board of Transport Commissioners, which is a body set up by parliament, and tariff schedules and work conditions are regulated by it. Commercial motor vehicles compete with the railways (many of them do an inter-provincial trade), but they are subject to the same set of regulations imposed by the nine provinces, and Federal authority does not touch them. Clearly this is an agreement by the provinces for unfair competition, for subjection of the national interest to private profit.

The Quebec committee has taken an effective step in making its views known to the Premier, Godwin and his cabinet. Refuse must come from the provinces, because it is dependent on an agreement by them to concede jurisdiction of the Dominion over this form of commercial transport.

Centralized authority is so obvious an answer to many of our transport problems that its acceptance by the provincial governments should be demanded insistently by public opinion. Edmonton Journal.

Exams or Credits

The education department of the Australian States has decided not to longer approve of school examinations, and thinks that a free crumbling system. The headmasters of most of the secondary private schools do not agree with this and put their faith in exams, which are retained in their schools.

The department takes a high pedagogical attitude. It believes in the credit system, and sees in it the sole test of knowledge. The pupil who might flunk through an exam is supposed to be unable to do so, and is a failure. It is to be the best, the most impartial, and the surest test of the youngster's progress.

The headmasters think that teachers are neither impartial nor unbiased, and they want their pupils to be tested by the external examiner who sets the examination paper.

A compromise seems to be the best. Some schools pass the pupils on by credits and some by exams. The private schools (which are the public schools) have a public examination certificates, and the public schools (which are our private schools) have instituted a certificate of their own, whose possession shows that the pupils stand up to the test of examination.

Parents in the States have not been allowed to say or think much one way or another on the subject. They are not to be told what the firm stands. The right school to send them, think, is the school in which exams are avoided and credits are given only to be made up to—Winnipeg Free Press.

By FRED WILLIAMS

One hundred and thirty-six years ago on Feb. 18, 1804, the late Lord of Londonderry, Ireland, a boy who was to achieve fame as the first British legislator to pass his one hundredth birthday and still continue his legislative duties.

David Ward left Ireland when 21, made a three-month journey across the Atlantic and landed at Saint John, where he entered a merchant's office as a clerk at a very early age. He was not long, however, before his industry and integrity were recognized, and he rose to the top. In 1818, he was elected to the House of Commons, and in 1820, he was elected to the House of Commons; in 1828 he was a member of the government, and then, receiver-general, 1832-1837. He took a prominent part in the Confederation struggle, but did not qualify as a Father of Confederation. Yet when the list of the first senators for New Brunswick was announced his name was fifth on the list.

I first saw the old gentleman in 1887. He was then 83. No long wavy white hair, but a look at his stalwart figure or to listen to his pregnant speeches, of a business man rather than his portrait (to be hung in the Senate lobby) a sort of old-world—English Cardinal Yagor, still as alert mentally, as he had been any time in his life. I do not think he came to Ottawa in 1868, as the way they presented the portrait was his last in parliament. He died Aug. 30, 1905, in his 101st year. He was given a state funeral and a state funeral service.

Our only other contemporary senator was Hon. G. C. Desaulles of St. Hyacinthe, who died April 13, 1898. In his 164th year, this beaming April's record as a senator, but not as a legislator, for he was only a senator for 23 years.

We all see clearly that, with the victory of the Allies, our own security will be guaranteed. Otherwise—which may God forbid—general reprisals will descend upon all of us and will crush our way of life. The world—English Cardinal Yagor, patriarch of Anich.

LIEUT. F. C. CASSELMAN, M.C., B.A., L.B.

Casselman Has Record Civil, Army Service: Is Liberal Candidate

Soldier, athlete, barrister and community service officer, Lieut. F. C. Casselman, M.C., B.A., L.B., city alderman and Liberal candidate in the East Edmonton Dominion constituency for the general election of March 26, has served this city and his country in many capacities with distinction, both in civil and military life.

In his public service, Mr. Casselman has made a special study of taxation and financial problems and is progressive in his outlook on public affairs generally.

Born in 1868 of United Empire Loyalist stock, he was raised on a farm in Lambton County, Ont. He graduated from Queen's University in Arts, from the University of Toronto in Education, and from the University of Alberta in law.

TAUGHT SCHOOL
He taught public and high school for seven years in Ontario, Saskatchewan and Alberta, and commenced the study of law in Alberta in 1913, being called to the Alberta bar three years later.

His legal career was interrupted when the first World War broke out and he enlisted as a private and went overseas with the 20th Battalion. After service overseas with the Canadians he was granted a second lieutenant's commission in the 20th Battalion, and later, while serving at the front with the Dorset Regiment, was severely wounded.

For gallantry in action he was awarded the Military Cross, and upon discharge was a first lieutenant.

On his return from active service he took an interest in public affairs, and served on the Edmonton Public School Board from 1920 to 1927. Since that time he has served as an alderman and as president of the city council, by-law committee.

Since 1921 he has resided in the constituency in which he will run. In 1916 he was married to Cora T. Watt. They have one daughter, Frances.

He is a past president of the Canadian Club; session member of Knox United church and a member of the Masonic order.

SPORT RECORD
In sport he has been actively associated with baseball, basketball, skating and tennis. He excelled at tennis and always has been a top flight player in the west. He was winner of the Ferris cup in provincial competition and in both singles and doubles has won many tournaments. He is chairman of the Edmonton committee of the Dominion-provincial physical training program.

Span of life in New Zealand, Australia and Scandinavian countries is greater than in the U.S.

FINAL CHOICE OF NOMINEES WILL BE MADE

Social Credit Advisory Board Sessions Will Open Tuesday

Final selection of candidates to contest both the Dominion and provincial elections on behalf of Social Credit will commence at Hadden Hall, 97 street, at 8.30 a.m. Tuesday, when the advisory board named for this purpose will open sittings. It is expected the board will sit for three days here. Hadden Hall is the headquarters of the Edmonton Constituent Social Credit Association, which, Dominion and provincial candidates will be selected.

Selection by the advisory board follows upon procedure at Social Credit preliminary conventions, at which states of two or three candidates have been selected and then the names go before the board and a final selection is made from the names submitted.

THREE MINISTERS
The advisory board will be chosen by the board of management of the Alberta Social Credit League and will include three cabinet ministers, two league directors, the cabinet ministers probably being Premier William Aberhart, Hon. Ernest C. Manning, minister of trade and industry and Hon. Solon E. Low, provincial treasurer.

In addition to the three ministers and two directors, there will be present at advisory board meetings from seven to 12 zone organizers from the constituency from which the candidates are to be elected.

The candidates comprising various slates also will appear before the board and some zone organizers prior to final selection being made.

While in the 1935 provincial general election, the full slate of Social Credit candidates was announced

QUESTION
What do you think should be done to increase public interest in public affairs?

ANSWERS

J. E. HART, barrister: If people are to have an interest in public affairs, with two elections in full swing, they must be interested. Personally, I believe there is a good deal of interest, but the general public is not in the leading public places.

L. E. DRUMMOND, Chamber of Mines: Interest in politics has never been very high, but it is increasing. I don't believe people are interested today in hearing party slogans or party promises. They are interested in the real issues discussed intelligently and fairly. The response to such issues would be gratifying.

T. G. GREIFF, Canadian Legion: If those who are making the political speeches think they have a good case, they should have the wisdom to pay the public the price of the election. It is not to have the election issues reviewed clearly and calmly. This is a crisis in the country, and the problem is not to increase public interest, but to use the interest that unquestionably exists for the national good.

Love Is Elected 1940 President Dairymen Group

The Alberta Dairymen's Association at its 21st annual convention in Calgary last week, elected E. J. Love, managing director of Woodland Dairy Limited, Edmonton, as president.

Mr. Love also was honored for his work in the dairying industry by being made a life member of the association, which drew its first secretary in 1917.

James B. Ritchie, South Edmonton, was elected first vice-president; D. H. McCallum, Edmonton, provincial dairy commissioner, secretary-treasurer and W. L. Wright, Calgary, second vice-president.

The next convention will be in Edmonton, March 7, 1941. More than 500 delegates attended the Calgary meeting.

Indemnity Bond Does Not Apply To Cabinet Men

In the payment of sessional indemnities to members of the legislature last year, which restored the full indemnity from $1,800 which had been the amount paid since 1930, exempted cabinet ministers.

Cabinet ministers' indemnities remained at $1,800, while private members went back to the full amount of $2,000.

Including Premier William Aberhart there are eight cabinet ministers, each drawing $1,800 instead of $2,000, which subtracts $1,600 from the full amount of ministerial indemnities. Indemnities for 45 sitting members at $2,000 each total $90,000, and less the subtracted amounts would mean a total of $122,400 in indemnities.

John Gunk, 107A avenue and 97 street, said that witnesses of the affair told them that the driver of the car made every possible effort to avoid the child as she walked diagonally across the street.

Johnson had just come from the north end of the bridge when Brown's auto came from the west and collided with it. Both cars were badly damaged. Mrs. Brown and Lyons were taken to the General hospital for medical attention.

When an auto driven by W. B. Dullman, 1940 Commercial, was on route as he drove west on 1300 street Sunday afternoon, it struck a telephone pole and was carried by some youths who were walking on the sidewalk. CHAPTER XXIII
MRS. WILLIAM MARTIN had asked Katie Donovan to meet her at the Colony at 7.

"There are so many things I want to talk over with you, my dear," said Mrs. Martin, who had a chance to meet her at the Colony at 7.

Mrs. Donovan was flattered by the intimate note in the phone call. She felt as if she had already been admitted to the Martin family circle. She knew from past talks that it wasn't easy to be a Martin.

With great care she dressed for luncheon. She had helped her into the three different costumes before she settled on her black crepe and black Persian lamb coat. Instantly, she knew they looked her.

Instead of her diamond bracelet she wore pearls. She had seen her when she would probably have asked where the pearls were, especially when she fitted on that queer peaked black hat with the long veil. But then, she knew it was smart, hadn't she paid $50 for it?

You couldn't make a mistake with Vernet's clothes. He dressed everyone in society. A Vernet costume was like a court uniform. It got you by in the right places.

A charming lot of fashionably dressed women were already jamming the lounge when Mrs. Martin walked in a few minutes before Mrs. Martin had not yet arrived. Mrs. Martin had not yet arrived.

But Mrs. Martin had not yet arrived. She liked to watch the people, many of whom she recognized from their pictures in the papers. Mrs. Birdie Mason was beginning to show the wear and tear of five husbands, she thought, surreptitiously studying the flamboyant woman sitting beside her. Across from them was Mrs. Malson's first husband. He waved good-naturedly to his former wife, the owner of the Colony, who nodded affably at Mrs. Donovan.

"Yes, I've been South," Katie answered, pleased to be noticed by Jean and yet careful of over-familiarity. "I came back on the boat."

In her heart, Katie knew that Jean knew the social standing of the Donovans was not so secure as their finances. But today she would not let it show. She would be stern publicly with Mrs. William Martin sent one's social stock soaring.

"I've been South," Katie answered, pleased to be noticed by Jean and yet careful of over-familiarity. "I came back on the boat."

A sir at the door, heralded Mrs. Martin's arrival. Wherever she appeared, there was always a commotion. Her dress, her manner and her voice, commanded attention.

"My dear Mrs. Donovan," she cried, bearing down under full sail on Katie.

She was dressed today in heavy black satin with a great deal of jet gleaming at the throat and her make-up was as much as made her look like a Russian general. From within the lounge looked pleasantly self-conscious as she passed, glad to be at the Colony on the day she was lunching there.

"We have your same table, Mrs. Martin," Jean nodded, distinguished to a waiter. "Madame is sitting in the front, the one marked reserved."

She glanced at the small waltz of waiters, busboys and attendants to draw the chairs back. The glasses with ice and perfume and special bouquet of spring flowers on the table.

"We'll order and then talk," Mrs. Martin said, accepting the homage. She sat opposite Katie, nodding to this and that person, holding up her long white gloves to identify those about her.

"There's Mrs. Morgan," she murmured, bowing to an extraordinarily thin old lady whose wrinkled parchment throat was held in by a black velvet band.

"I'm expecting you at my party tonight," she called.

Mrs. Morgan nodded, the plumes on her Quorn Mary hat. "I'm looking forward to it with great pleasure. I hear your beautiful niece is the inspiration."

By the time Mrs. Martin had spoken to the different people around her, it developed that practically everybody in the restaurant would be at the party. The Robbards, the Janssens, the Kinsens and the Leonard Fancies were all coming.

Mrs. Martin fixed her long stare on Mrs. Donovan.

"I hope you like smoked salmon and filet of sole," she said. "I always order them in England. This is the only place in New York where they're half dressed."

Katie murmured that she liked them very much. She was going to be a lady if it killed her.

"And now," said Mrs. Martin, sweeping aside the knives and forks which the waiters had so carefully laid in front of them. "We can get down to business."

Sonnysayings

Animal Crackers

"Humph. Communists!—and from New England!"

Dan grinned, but he started questioning at his mother.

"See you later?" he asked.

Mrs. Donovan did not answer.

Wings Continue to Set Hot Pace; Shutout Rangers

Detroit, Feb. 19.—A pair of goals in the second half of the third period gave Detroit Red Wings a 2-0 victory over the leading New York Rangers in a National Hockey League game last night.

The contest, last between the clubs during its regular campaign, produced a free-for-all fight in the second period between Eddie Warde of Detroit and Alf Pike of Rangers. Others joined in and police finally broke it up. Warde and Pike received minor penalties.

In the third period, while New York was shutout because of a penalty, Alex Motter scored on a shot from 10 feet out.

Less than a minute later Syd Howe passed to Robert Brunetteau, who sent the rubber whizzing over goalie Dave Kerr's shoulder.

Hawks Stretch Unbroken Streak
NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—Chicago Black Hawks rallied for a goal in the third period last night to tie the New York Americans 1-1 in a National Hockey League game.

The result extended Chicago's undefeated streak to seven, of which four were victories and three ties. Murray Armstrong scored the open goal early in the second period, when it came halfway through the third period, was lucked.

Leafs Again Stop Canadiens By 2-1
MONTREAL, Feb. 19.—Toronto Maple Leafs scored a 2-1 victory last night over Montreal Canadiens as the second impact crowd of the local National Hockey League season—10,320 paid admissions—looked on.

While the officials handed out 22 penalties—five of them major—the Leafs made it their second victory of the week-end over the Canadiens on a goal in the first period by George Kavanagh and another in the third season by Nick Metz shortly after Ray Gelfing had drawn the habibule even.

Kelly's Sniping Gives Leafs Win
TORONTO, Feb. 19.—Regis (Pop) Kelly, captain of the Toronto Maple Leafs, scored the winning goal in the first period, giving the Leafs a 2-1 victory over the Montreal Canadiens last night.

He traded punches with Ray Gelfing from the Toronto blueline to center ice in the first, before Gelfing broke it up. This netted the Leafs a major and Gelfing a minor. They grappled again in the side behind the penalty box and both received misconduct penalties.

When Regis Thompson taunted him from the ice, Horner bagged the Canadian with a straight right. Thompson took a misconduct penalty for interfering.

Red Heron got the other Toronto goal late in the first period. Gelfing scored the Canadian tally while Horner served one of his two minor penalties.

Kemp Stages Thriller In Final of Playoffs

IT WILL be Cliff Manahan of the Royal versus Bill Cheyne of Calgary when the Alberta final for the British Consols curling trophy gets underway here this coming Saturday.

That was decided here over the week-end when Manahan defeated Ritchie of the Granite and Kemp of the Royal in the northern Alberta finals.

Manahan met Ritchie in the first round on Saturday morning and won 2-5 after losing a 10-9 in the third end and a three on the seventh.

Kemp lacked Ritchie in the second round in the afternoon and won 5-3.

The final and deciding draw saw Kemp pitted against Manahan for what was probably the finest game of the playoffs. For the first seven ends, Kemp led most of the way although Manahan tied the count twice. Then on the seventh, the Manahan built a 4-0 lead and then three and proved to be the deciding end.

Following are the end scores:
Manahan 004 101 311 61-12
Ritchie 210 010 000 10-3
Kemp 110 100 301 10-9
Ritchie 001 001 020 02-6

Manahan 102 001 002 01-2
Manahan 010 110 100 10-8

Only yesterday he looked forward to a successful future in Canada. Then an empire emergency arose. He dropped his education, the training for his life work, and sprang to the defense of the Empire.

These war years must not be lost from his life! His education, his training for success in civil life must be continued while he serves his country. To provide the necessary educational services, and to supply such other facilities as will keep alive among our boys on service the feeling that they are still an intimate part of things back home, the Legion is asking Canadians to contribute $500,000.

Personal and Recreational Services The Legion also undertakes to help the men in the solution of personal, family problems. Leave centres will be provided overseas. Concert parties, sports activities will be organized. Every effort will be made to bring the boys a touch of home when they are far from their families and friends.

HELP WIN THE WAR Will you lend a hand in this work? Will you help a lad on active service to make good when the war is over? Here is an opportunity to invest in Canadian manhood. Send or take a generous donation to your nearest Legion Branch. Give to this great new cause—today!

Men on Service—to be Trained for Peace The Legion has undertaken to organize and finance this work. The Canadian Association for Adult Education with its long and distinguished record is collaborating in carrying out the plan.
